From the Editor

This issue is dedicated to my fabulous Promethean editorial staff — Charlotte, John, Michael, Tim, and Jamie. They had a real vision of what they wanted The Promethean to be, and their creativity and artistry show on every page. In addition, you will find their names as bylines alongside many of the works in this issue, since they are all talented artists in their own right.

So thanks, gang, see you next semester. And best of luck to Charlotte as she graduates and goes on to new adventures. We'll miss you!

Seed of Love

Pam VanDenBroek

my mother’s bright smile my father’s gentle hug her comforting fragrance his protective glance they laugh and look at one another i grin and clasp my hands so glad they love each other so i hear stories in my absence they frolic in renewed youth an empty household daughters gone

no extra dishes
no extra laundry
little noise
perhaps a bit of loneliness

they turn to each other strengthening their bond i look inside myself their love is a seed within me i see its potential i look up to see them occupied in each other’s eyes i am no longer a child but a product of love

soon to bloom
