

Volume 25
Issue 1 The Velvet Night

Article 48

4-20-2017

The Good Book

Torrey Woolsey
Concordia University - Portland

Follow this and additional works at: <http://commons.cu-portland.edu/promethean>

Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

Woolsey, Torrey (2017) "The Good Book," The Promethean: Vol. 25 : Iss. 1 , Article 48.
Available at: <http://commons.cu-portland.edu/promethean/vol25/iss1/48>

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by CU Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Promethean by an authorized administrator of CU Commons. For more information, please contact libraryadmin@cu-portland.edu.

The Good Book

Torrey Woolsey

- 1 I lie on thy bedside table
Untouched.... for several days.
Skin tattooed by water rings,
spine broke from forced backbends
in search of the truth.
- 2 Pages brittle and stained,
a clear representation of Sunday.¹
Doodles etched: I bore you;
I shepherd your wandering thoughts.
- 3 I have an opinion or two and what I say should be absolute.
I have consumed stories that are supposed to emit hope but what I regurgitate is fear and judgment.
- 4 I am a walking contradiction.
If I were your counselor,
One session I would tell you to stop persecuting those around you.
Enforce the reminder that we are all children of God.
Prompt that it is right to love thy neighbor.
- 5 The next session you will beam at the progress you made.
Expressing how you loved all:
Those who have sinned,
Those who are gay,
Those of a different religion.

¹ A wave of judgment as you reflect on the sins you've committed. You will never be good enough.

6 You are the epitome of proud.

I will allow your confidence to overflow
then I will empty it by telling you that you are wrong.

You will be damned.

Some people deserve to be delivered to the depths of hell.
I have the power to make you feel defeated.

7 On the outside, my simplicity is seducing and intimidating but welcoming and familiar.

On the inside I am confused and misunderstood
(more often than not.)

I suffer from Kalopsia.²

² A condition, state or delusion in which things appear more beautiful than they really are.