

Volume 15
Issue 1 Genesis (2006-2007 Issue)

Article 34

5-1-2007

Voyeur

Donnie Drobny
Concordia University- Portland

Follow this and additional works at: <http://commons.cu-portland.edu/promethean>

 Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

Drobny, Donnie (2007) "Voyeur," The Promethean: Vol. 15 : Iss. 1 , Article 34.
Available at: <http://commons.cu-portland.edu/promethean/vol15/iss1/34>

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by CU Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Promethean by an authorized administrator of CU Commons. For more information, please contact libraryadmin@cu-portland.edu.

VOYEUR

Donnie Drobny

Looking through your window
Watching your sweet, subtle moves
A tear almost falls from my eyes.

You look at me, but I can't move
And I can see inside your eyes.
I see through your body's window,

Your heart and soul, shining from cerulean eyes.
And you don't see me, outside your window,
Still, you don't move and I don't move.

My dreams drift to inside the window
To a time, a place, where nothing moves
But the lights that dance in our eyes

To a time found in dreaming eyes
Where I don't have to sit by your window
Waiting for that one single move

When you call me inside the window
Like Peter Pan through a child's eyes
And together we both move,

And dance, and dance, and move
And watch the lights in each other's eyes
And someone else watches us from the window

With eyes that wait at window panes, afraid to move.