

5-1-2019

Three Blue Butterflies

Renee Borcharding
Concordia University - Portland

Follow this and additional works at: <https://commons.cu-portland.edu/promethean>

Part of the Poetry Commons

CU Commons Citation

Borcharding, Renee (2019) "Three Blue Butterflies," The Promethean: Vol. 27 : Iss. 1 , Article 68.
Available at: <https://commons.cu-portland.edu/promethean/vol27/iss1/68>

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by CU Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Promethean by an authorized administrator of CU Commons. For more information, please contact libraryadmin@cu-portland.edu.

Footer Logo

Three Blue Butterflies

Renee Borcherding

A blue butterfly is busy smelling a pink rose that smells the best of the five,

Smelling roses is so intoxicating the butterfly is thrilled to be alive.

Butterflies and flowers are an inseparable pair, it makes a lot of sense

Entranced with the perfume of pink roses is a feeling so intense.

The busy butterfly continues enjoying its time among the pink roses

There's no reason to move until the gardeners grab their hoses.

A blue butterfly happily flutters around a purple tulip standing alone

Fluttering around it so many times is the most fun it's ever known

This particular tulip was planted to decorate an ambitious wife's front lawn

She comes outside to water and care for them faithfully every dawn.

The flowers are planted sporadically with little planning or design

The blue butterfly wishes there was ivy growing next to the tulip on a vine.

A blue butterfly appears on a windowsill ready to go inside

It waits there first because it needs a minute to decide

Going in a house could be dangerous and not very fun

Butterflies need sunshine and wind, they cannot live with none.

It floats in slowly, very cautious of going somewhere new

It's not scared anymore because it found a butterfly inside the house too.