Ode to the Color Blue

Maria Rizk

Concordia University - Portland

Follow this and additional works at: http://commons.cu-portland.edu/promethean

Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation
Rizk, Maria (2009) "Ode to the Color Blue," The Promethean: Vol. 17 : Iss. 1 , Article 47.
Available at: http://commons.cu-portland.edu/promethean/vol17/iss1/47
Ah Blue
There are many things that involve the color blue
Blue skies, blue pens, bleu cheese.
You can feel blue or say something out of the blue;
You can sing the blues or listen to blue grass music;
You can have blue eyes that sparkle like sapphires.
There are many shades of blue,
Cobalt
Cerulean
Robin’s egg
Sky blue
Navy
Blue green
Blue violet
Royal blue.
Each shade is just as important as the next.
You can wear blue jeans while eating bleu cheese dip with blue corn chips.
Without blue, there would be no purple,
Or green.
You wouldn’t have blue jays, or beautiful lakes.
Notebook paper wouldn’t be the same,
Neither would rainbows,
Neither would yogurt cups, pop tarts, Airheads, Slurpees, the sky, water.
Ah Blue.
The world would lose so much without the color blue.

Dedicated to Miss. Lauren Sippy